

Stephen L. Newman, M.D. Vice Chairman

Stephen L. Newman, M.D., vice chairman of Tenet Healthcare Corporation, oversees the company's implementation of advanced clinical information systems and assists the clinical quality and physician relationship development efforts.

Previously, Dr. Newman served as chief operating and was responsible for operational oversight of Tenet's acute care hospitals, as well as ambulatory surgery centers and diagnostic imaging centers.

From March 2003 until his promotion to COO in January 2007, Dr. Newman served as chief executive officer of Tenet's California operations, building a successful, profitable core of hospitals in a highly competitive market. Tenet's California hospitals were the first to implement the company's Targeted Growth Initiative (TGI), in which a hospital's service offerings and growth plans are matched against anticipated future changes in the health care needs of its community. Based on its early success in California, the TGI has been rolled out to Tenet hospitals nationwide.

Dr. Newman joined Tenet in February 1999 as vice president of operations for Tenet's former Gulf States Region, where he managed 12 hospitals in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. In June 2000, he was promoted to senior vice president of operations.

Prior to joining Tenet, Dr. Newman served as president of Columbia/HCA's Omega Division, a 14-hospital group in four states. Beginning in April 1997, he served as president and CEO of Columbia/HCA's Louisville Healthcare Network, a three-hospital, 1,200-bed system in Louisville, Kentucky, and simultaneously served as CEO at Audubon Hospital, a 680-bed hospital in the Louisville system. From 1990 to 1997, Dr. Newman served as senior vice president and chief medical officer at Touro Infirmary, a 350-bed medical center in New Orleans.

Before becoming a hospital executive in 1990, Dr. Newman was a pediatric gastroenterologist, teaching and practicing medicine for 12 years. He began his medical career in Dayton, Ohio, as an associate professor of pediatrics and medicine at Wright State University School of Medicine, and as director of gastroenterology and nutrition support at Children's Medical Center, a 155-bed children's hospital.

Dr. Newman earned his bachelor's degree from Rutgers University, his master's degree in business administration from Tulane University and his medical degree from the University of Tennessee. He completed his internship, residency and fellowship at Emory University School of Medicine. In 2001, he completed the Advanced Management program at the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Newman serves on the Board of Directors of the Federation of American Hospitals and serves on the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta's Labor, Education and Health Policy Council.