Tenet's CFO Honored Among Treasury & Risk Magazine's 100 Most Influential People in Finance

DALLAS - June 4, 2007 – Tenet Healthcare Corporation (NYSE: THC) announced today that its chief financial officer, Biggs C. Porter, has been named among the “100 Most Influential People in Finance” by Treasury & Risk magazine, a trade publication for senior financial executives. Porter is recognized in the “The Financial C-Suite the keepers of the fiduciary trust” category of the list, along with 16 other CFOs. Porter was recognized last year in the strategic treasurers and controllers category.

“In the year he has been with Tenet, Biggs’ knowledge, expertise and high standards have made him a valuable asset to our management team,” said Trevor Fetter, Tenet’s president and chief executive officer. “We are proud of this well-deserved recognition.”

The magazine’s editorial team selected the honorees based on recommendations made by executives throughout the financial community. Their editors researched and evaluated the recommendations based on their accomplishments in the past year and their goals going forward. The final decision was made by the magazine’s editorial director.

Treasury & Risk magazine selected Porter, 53, for his financial skills and experience. They said they chose Porter because of his accomplishments after helping navigate Raytheon Co. through an accounting crisis of its own, and the progress he is making to help strengthen Tenet's financial reporting and controls.

As Tenet's CFO, Porter is responsible for the company's finance, accounting, investor relations and other related functions. He is a certified public accountant and holds a bachelor's degree in accounting from Duke University and a master's degree in accounting from the University of Texas, Austin.

Tenet Healthcare Corporation, through its subsidiaries, owns and operates acute care hospitals and related health care services. Tenet's hospitals aim to provide the best possible care to every patient who comes through their doors, with a clear focus on quality and service. Tenet can be found on the World Wide Web at www.tenethealth.com.
